accompanying General Villa, arrived today from El Paso and had a long conference with Secretary Bryan. Neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Carranza would discuss the matter, but for several days reports of Villa's disposition to submit to Carranza have been reaching officials here.

Another aspect of the situation, which was not regarded as favorable, was the reported attitude of General Carranza on the subject of amnesty. Some doubts are expressed in official reports as to whether Carranza would give a pledge for amnesty in any form or way, being opposed to the idea that Carranza's surrender should be conditioned on anything.

CITIZENS READY TO HELP MAYOR GET
CITY QUARTERS

Some way out of the difficulty in the way of financing the finishing of the city hall was still being sought by the city hall committee this morning. The unfavorable decision of the supreme court on the plan proposed by Marron & Wood, on which hope had been based, put the committee back at the point it reached months ago, when the limit of funds available came in sight, with no way of financing the project in completion in shape.

The public-spirited citizen who stood ready yesterday to lend the city up to $25,000 on "moral security" said today that it seemed as if circumstances made such a direct loan unadvisable. The possibility of a contentious taxpayer stepping between the city and a lender protected only by moral security is said to offer too great a bar to make any such loan at all likely.

J. Korber is said to be ready to lend the city $2,000 to be used in finishing up three rooms in the city hall for the use of the council, the city clerk and the mayor, and State Senator J. F. Suiter is said to be ready to advance $2,000 for the same purpose.

The city hall fund amounts to about $4,000 a year, but at the present time there is not more than $200 in the fund, and it is doubtful if even $2,000 can be borrowed without leaving the lender open to attack from the people protesting taxpayer when it comes time to repay.

A prominent capitalist is said to favor the plan of having 50 substantial citizens guarantee $500 each to cover a loan made by the banks.

Chairman Ivan Grunsfeld and other members of the city hall committee said today that they had no plans under consideration at that time. They were waiting for the full text of the decision on the loan plan, in the hope that it might point some way in which the city might legally borrow the necessary money. Pending the receipt of the decision the committee was marking time.

"The problem will be worked out some way," said Mayor Boatright. "The matter will probably be threshed out at the council meeting Monday."

Grand Old Party in Bernalillo County Again Split into Sharply Warring Factions with Romero's Scalp as Prize

ALBUQUERQUE BROTHERS SORE AT THE CALL

Charged that Hours of Voting are too Short to Permit Rank and File to Get to the Booth. Jobs Charged in Country.

The battle-worn Republican party of Bernalillo county, for the past eight years torn by factions, again is split wide open by an issue which will be fought out at the primaries called for next Friday afternoon and evening and which promises to be the most serious in the bellicose history of the Grand Old Party in this section.

On one side are lined up the county boss, Sheriff Jesus Romero; Efigenio Baca, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress; Charles Chadwick and John W. Wilson, the managers of Mayor Boatright's political fortunes and one or two of the powerful county precinct leaders who have cast their fortunes with Romero. On the other side are the party leaders of Albuquerque, headed by the Morning Journal, long the supporter of Romero, and whose advocacy and basking secured the county boss his foothold on the ladder of power by which he ascended to the throne.

The row, which became acute three weeks ago when Romero publicly announced his fealty to Baca and his determination to stand by the terms of the "Peace of Old Albuquerque," by which the county machine was pledged to support Baca for congress, broke into violence at the county committee meeting last Monday, and developed into open warfare yesterday and today when open defiance was hurled at the boss by the city leaders, who announced their intention of taking Boss Romero by the scruff of his neck and casting him into outer darkness. It is no pink tea affair. It is a fight to a finish with the right of Albuquerque Republicans to representation in the party councils as the stake on one side and the political life of Boss Romero as the stake on the other. It is likely to be a spectacular struggle and one well worth watching from the side lines.

The Albuquerque leaders charge that the call, official copies of which were scattered broadcast in the form of dodgers yesterday by Charles Chadwick, secretary of the county committee, is a jam from start to finish.

It is charged to begin with that the committee which drafted the call, of which Modesto Orta was chairman and John W. Wilson and Mayor Boatright members, so fixed the representation from the various precincts as to totally disfranchise the Republicans of Albuquerque, by giving the county precincts, which are supposed to belong to Romero, an overwhelming majority in the convention. It is charged that the call is arranged so that the committeemen named to conduct the primaries in each precinct may cast the vote of that precinct for delegates to the county convention without let or hindrance; that in the country precincts, where the primaries are to be held from 2 to 3 o'clock, no meeting place is assigned and the precinct boss can call the primary whenever and wherever he chooses and cast the ballot for the precinct.

It is charged that in Albuquerque, where the voting is to be by ballot, no places of meeting are given, and that two hours, from 7 to 9 o'clock, will not permit a third of the Republican vote in the city to be cast.

On the other hand the committee and supporters of Boss Romero assert that the call is regular as to form and square as to terms; that the representation is in just proportion to votes cast by Republicans and Progressives in the last election, and that if Albuquerque didn't cast the votes for those two parties it is Albuquerque's fault. The Romero men assert that the boss holds the county vote in the hollow of his hand and that nothing can shake it. The anti-boss men assert that they will make the boss and his followers look like faded flowers, even with the "fixed" primary to contend with.

The merits of the case are not interesting the general public so much as the battle itself, which promises to be a hummer.

I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT IT SAYS MAYOR

Councilmen Say it is Just as Well, Since He Cannot Secure Confirmation of Wootton as Police Chief.

INJURES DEPARTMENT

That Mayor Boatright hasn't a chance in the world to secure the confirmation of R. L. (Dick) Wootton as chief of police was the quietly confident statement of a member of the city council this morning. The mayor needs four votes besides his own to slide Wootton into office, and those who are quite familiar with the councilmanic line-up and feeling say he will never get them—hasn't the slightest chance of getting them.

It is said that the mayor has no intention of nominating Wootton until he feels assured he can get him through. If that is true, Wootton won't be named Monday night, because the mayor hasn't received the slightest encouragement. And those who know councilmanic opinion and views say he might as well forget the marshaling appointment once and for all, as long as the present council is in office, because none of the majority will change their stand in the matter.

One member of the city government said today that it was time the mayor awoke to the fact that he was interfering with the administration of police matters by his persistent effort for patronage he can't have. The mayor's refusal to make the best of conditions and to help Chief McMillin get the greatest service out of a very efficient police force is not doing any good, it is claimed. The state of uncertainty doesn't help discipline in the department a bit, and is hampering Chief McMillin, whose only desire is to devote himself single-mindedly to the task of policing the city and to seeing that the laws are enforced.

CUBA WANTS TO CLOSE UP TIGHT SUNDAY

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]
Cuba, N. M., July 29.—Among the out-of-town visitors to Cuba the last few days have been Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McMillin and family. Mr. and Mrs. Gillivray have been spending the past month in the mountains about Jemez.

Chas. Probstel and S. L. At of Santa Fe spent Sunday in town reeling up after two weeks' fishing in the Jemez country. They continued Monday on their way to Terra Amarilla and the Brahma.

An effort is being made to secure Sunday closing in Cuba. The merchants have signed an agreement to this end but the saloon men, who also carry stocks of dry goods and groceries have so far refused to enter into the compact.

A petition asking for Sunday closing of the saloons has been circulated among the citizens and forwarded to the proper authorities asking relief in this matter. For some months there has been much drinking and carousing on Sunday and previous complaints have been made.

A. Eichwald returned from a business trip to Albuquerque yesterday. J. F. Young, manager for Stupin Mercantile company, is on a buying trip, meeting salesmen at Albuquerque and Santa Fe. He was accompanied to the railroad by J. A. Jaenick of the forest service.
